Outcome of activity:

Practical Experience: The hands-on training program will provide students with practical experience in using various molecular techniques such as DNA extraction, PCR, gel electrophoresis, process of pearl culture, different types of fish can be housed in aquariums. This experience will help students to better understand the theoretical concepts that they have learned in their classroom and textbooks.

Skill Development: The training program will help students to develop various skills such as pipetting, gel preparation, and data analysis. These skills are essential for a career in the molecular biology field. Workshops often provide students with the opportunity to get hands-on experience in pearl culture and aquarium construction. This can help them develop practical skills and gain confidence in their abilities.

Competitive Advantage: Students who have attended a hands-on training program in molecular techniques will have a competitive advantage over those who have not. Employers in the field of molecular biology often prefer candidates with practical experience, and students who have attended such programs will be better equipped to meet the demands of the job market.

Business ideas: Through attending the workshop, students may be exposed to new business ideas and opportunities related to pearl culture and aquarium construction. This can inspire them to develop their own business ideas and explore new markets.

In conclusion, attending a hands-on training program in molecular techniques can provide students with practical experience, skill development, confidence building, networking opportunities, competitive advantage in the job market and business ideas.

He talked to the students about Python Programming and its related fields where opportunities are abundant in the industry. Prof. S. A. Patil welcomed the participants and also introduced the resource person.

The training resource person Mr. Suraj Mujawar, initially focused on fundamental concepts of base of Python programming. Firstly he introduced the Python software to students, and then he gave information about various IDE's of Python. He taught how to download and install various IDE's on various operating systems. In Session 2 Mr. Mujawar delivered lecture on basic syntax of python programming and how to use it for coding. The Latex and Markdown were also discussed.

On Day 2, in the Session 1 the resource person Mr. Mujawar sir introduced various Python operators such as arithmetic, assignment, comparison, logical, identity, membership and bitwise operator to students followed by the practical of the same. In the Session 2 students learned about the data types in Python. Various modules in python were introduced.

On Day 3, the Session 1 continues with the modules. Mr. Mujawar sir taught students how to use the modules in Python in programming. Students learned about the modules names sympy, numpy, math, matplotlib, etc. the Session 2 students did the practical using modules. They successfully tried to write codes for mathematical operations such as differentiation and integration.

The Session 1 of Day 4 began with learning functions in Python. In detail, students learned how to define functions, parts of functions, parameters and arguments of functions, etc. students practiced defining functions for finding Fibonacci series, Armstrong number, factorial of a number and many more. In the Session 2 the conditional statements like if statement, else statement and elif statement were taught to students by the resource person. Program codes were written by students using the conditional statements to check even/odd numbers, prime numbers, etc.

On Day 5, in the Session 1 the resource person Mr. Suraj Mujawar gave lecture on how to plot graphs in python by using the matplotlib. Students learned to draw scatter plots, plotting graphs of explicitly defined functions, plotting multiple graphs together, parametric plots and etc. In Session 2 the practical of the same were performed by the students.

On Day 6, in Session 1 students learned various mathematical phenomena using Python. Students learned to write code for Numerical Differentiation, how to solve First Order Equations, various Numerical Method such as Bisection Method, Gauss-Elimination Method, Gauss-Jordan Method Etc. The Session 2 continued with Solving Linear Systems, Eigen values, Eigen Vectors. Students also learned the Mathematical Python.
